1.1.1 The St Andrews Preservation Trust Limited (“the Trust”) is committed to the practice of responsible corporate behaviour and to complying with all laws, regulations and other requirements which govern the conduct of its operations.

1.1.2 The Trust is fully committed to instilling a strong anti-corruption culture and is fully committed to compliance with all anti-bribery and anti-corruption legislation including, but not limited to, the Bribery Act 2010 (“the Act”) and to ensuring that no bribes or other corrupt payments, inducements or similar are made, offered, sought or obtained by us or anyone working on its behalf.

2. Bribery

2.1.1 Bribery is defined as the giving or promising of a financial or other advantage to another party where that advantage is intended to induce the other party to perform a particular function improperly, to reward them for the same, or where the acceptance of that advantage is in itself improper conduct.

2.1.2 Bribery is also deemed to take place if any party requests or agrees to receive a financial or other advantage from another party where that advantage is intended to induce that party to perform a particular function improperly, where the acceptance of that advantage is in itself improper conduct, or where that party acts improperly in anticipation of such advantage.

2.1.3 Bribery of a foreign official is defined as the giving or promising of a financial or other advantage which is intended to influence the official in order to obtain business or an advantage in the conduct of business unless the foreign official is required or permitted by law to be influenced by such advantage.

3. Consequences of Bribery

3.1.1 Anyone or any organisation found guilty of bribery under the Act may face fines and/or prison terms. In addition, high legal costs and adverse publicity are likely to result from any breach of the Act.

3.1.2.a.1 disciplinary action which may include dismissal; and

3.1.2.a.2 criminal penalties under the Act which may result in a fine and/or imprisonment for up to 10 years.

3.1.3 For the Trust, any breach of this Policy by any employee or business associate may result in:

3.1.3.a.1 the Trust being deemed to be in breach of the Act;

3.1.3.a.2 the Trust being subject to fines; and

- 3.1.3.a.3 the Trust suffering negative publicity and further associated damage as a result of such breach.

4. Responsibility for Compliance and Scope of Policy

- 4.1.1 This Policy applies to all employees, agents (including Trustees), contractors, subcontractors, consultants, business partners and any other parties (including individuals, partnerships and bodies corporate) associated with the Trust or any of its subsidiaries. - 4.1.3 No party described in section 4.1.1 may:

 - 4.1.3.a.2 request or agree to receive any financial or other advantage from another party where that advantage is intended to induce the improper performance of a particular function, where the acceptance of that advantage will in itself constitute improper conduct, or where the recipient intends to act improperly in anticipation of such an advantage.

6. Gifts and Hospitality

- 6.1.1 Gifts and hospitality remain a legitimate part of conducting business.

 - 6.1.3.a.6 Certain gifts which would otherwise be in breach of this Policy may be accepted if refusal would cause significant and/or cultural offence, however the Trust will donate any gifts accepted for such reasons to a charity of The Chairman's choosing.
 - 6.1.3.a.7 All gifts and hospitality, whether given or received, must be recorded in the Hospitality & Gifts Register.
